Defining Architectural Design Excellence

2012 AIA Committee on Design Conference
Columbus, Indiana | April 12-15, 2012

*"Great architecture is...a triple achievement.
It is the solving of a concrete problem.
It is the free expression of the architect himself.
And it is an inspired and intuitive expression of the client."
J. Irwin Miller*

*"Mediocrity is expensive."
J. Irwin Miller*

*"I won't try to define architectural design excellence, but I can discuss its value and strategy in Columbus, Indiana."
Will Miller*

2012 AIA Committee on Design Chair

Colleagues,

Being an old, mostly residential, architect from the boondocks of Alaska with a degree from a school out in the mountains of western Virginia, how can I not be humbled by the people who have preceded me as Chair of the Committee on Design, and for that matter, the people attending this conference.

Welcome to Columbus! Welcome to the Committee on Design! (if this is your first COD event)

Work hard, walk far, party hard, and get up at O-dark thirty. That's how it's always been since I discovered COD, the best part of the AIA for an architecture lover like me. We'll continue those COD traditions, but this conference is going to be a little different. It's still about touring, looking, sketching and photography; but you'll probably notice a little more emphasis on talking and listening. You'll have a calm dinner with one of the speakers; an opportunity to argue with a few of those speakers at a pub late into the night; and an invitation to an informal discussion with Gunnar Birkerts, and Ben and Cynthia Weese. I hope you will take advantage of all of these opportunities.

We need to spend more time talking and listening because our profession and our society may be at an important crossroads. Why, here in Columbus, after the efforts of J. Irwin Miller and other enlightened leaders for so many years, are there almost no modern houses? Why do even most of us live in homes that try to look like grandmother's house? There is an important taste gap between our profession and the rest of American society and it profoundly limits our ability to make meaningful contributions to our shared future.

This conference, at its heart, is about searching for ways to remove that gap. It's about finding definitions of architectural design excellence that we can believe in, but equally importantly, that our fellow citizens can heartily embrace. Everything about this conference has been designed to encourage you to contribute to that effort.

Do good, learn a lot, and have fun.

Welcome to Columbus, Indiana

With over 80 modern architectural buildings, Columbus, Indiana was ranked 6th in the nation for architectural innovation and design by the American Institute of Architects. It has been called the “Athens of the Prairie” and “a mecca for modern architecture”, it is internationally recognized as a world-class collection of modern architecture by master architects.

Anthony “Tony” Costello, FAIA

Costello + Associates
2012 AIA Committee on Design
Columbus, IN Conference Co-Chair

This conference will focus on “Defining Architectural Design Excellence” through design statements, presentations, discussions, parlor chats and after hour conversations with many of the prominent architects who have designed buildings here. We will experience many of the iconic buildings by the masters of modern architecture, as well as many of the recently completed buildings. These will serve as a point of reference to the value and strategy that this community has taken with design excellence.

Steven R. Risting, AIA

CSO Architects, Inc.
2012 AIA Committee on Design
Columbus, IN Conference Co-Chair

Thursday begins with a symposium, a tour of a Cummins engine plant, and the opening reception at the new Commons, where we will be joined by members of AIA Indianapolis. Friday we will explore the modern architecture of downtown Columbus, tour the Miller House and Garden, and have an exclusive reception and dinner at the Cummins Corporate Office Building with Cummins executives and community leaders. Saturday we will visit the modern architecture throughout the city, have a panel discussion, and celebrate at the annual COD banquet. Sunday we will venture off to the often forgotten modern architecture in Hope, Indiana and conclude with a brunch and closing discussion.

We hope your experience here the next three days will find Columbus, Indiana as unexpected, unforgettable, uncommon and different by design.

Conference Presenters

Bradley Brooks

Indianapolis Museum of Art
Indianapolis, IN

Bradley Brooks is director of historic resources at the Indianapolis Museum of Art. He studied American decorative arts in the University of Delaware's Winterthur Program in Early American Culture and has worked in historic house museums of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries in Texas and Indiana.

Working to open the Miller House and Garden to the public brought him into closer contact with the modern and contemporary architecture of Columbus, Indiana and the legacy of J. Irwin Miller.

Gunnar Birkerts, FAIA

Gunnar Birkerts Architect
Wellesley, MA

Born in Riga, Latvia in 1925, Mr. Birkerts was exiled to Germany in 1944, where he received a Diploma Architect Engineer at the Technical University Stuttgart in 1949.

Arriving in the U.S. in 1949, he worked in the offices of Eero Saarinen and Minoru Yamasaki before establishing his own firm and becoming a professor at the University of Michigan in 1959. Professor Emeritus at Michigan since 1990, he holds distinguished professorships from the Universities of Illinois, Oklahoma and Michigan. An Architect in Residence at the American Academy in Rome in 1976, he is a Fellow of the AIA, the Latvian Architectural Association, and the Graham Foundation. A member of the Latvian Academy of Sciences (LAS), he received the Brunner Prize in Architecture, "The Great Medal" from LAS, and the Republic of Latvia's "Order of the Three Stars". He is married, has three children and has received 58 major architectural awards.

Ben Weese, FAIA

Chicago, IL

Ben Weese is a founding principal of Weese Langley Weese. He worked for twenty years at Harry Weese and Associates where major projects included the Northside Junior High, Columbus, Indiana and the Irwin Union Bank, Hope, Indiana. He has worked extensively with educational institutions throughout the country including Williams College, Illinois Wesleyan University and Grinnell College. His work has been widely published, exhibited and awarded.

In 1996 Ben led the campaign to buy and restore H.H. Richardson's Glessner House in Chicago; he was a founding member and president of the Chicago Architecture Foundation. He was a board member and president of the Graham Foundation for Advancement in the Fine Arts. He was a member of the Commission on Chicago Landmarks. In 2011 AIACHicago awarded him their Lifetime Achievement Award.

Cynthia Weese, FAIA

Chicago, IL

Cynthia Weese is a founding principal of Weese Langley Weese. Her clients have included the Art Institute of Chicago, the University of Chicago and Northwestern University. Her work has received many awards; she has lectured nationally and internationally.

From 1995-2006 she was professor and dean of the School of Architecture at Washington University in St. Louis, her alma mater, where she was also active in the process of planning and building an arts campus including renovating three existing buildings and constructing two new ones.

Cynthia has been active in the AIA, serving as President of AIACHicago and vice president of the national AIA Board. She is a founding member of Chicago Women in Architecture and the Chicago Architectural Club and was president of the latter. She currently is a Board member of the Society of Architectural Historians.

Nancy Rogo Trainer, FAIA

Venturi Scott Brown & Associates
Philadelphia, PA

Since joining VSBA in 1987, Nancy has provided planning and design services to academic and cultural institutions. Her projects include campus plans, museums, student centers and libraries -- design that helps build community by integrating social, strategic and physical goals.

Her architectural projects include Harvard Divinity School's Rockefeller Hall, the Schlesinger Library on the History of Women in America at Radcliffe, and VSBA's winning competition entry for the extension of the Stedelijk Museum in Amsterdam.

She has taught undergraduates at Temple University and the University of Pennsylvania, and has been on the Drexel University Department of Architecture's adjunct faculty since 1990. She is currently a member of the Philadelphia City Planning Commission.

Daniel McCoubrey, AIA

Venturi Scott Brown & Associates
Philadelphia, PA

With VSBA since 1981, Mr McCoubrey is experienced with planning and design of academic and cultural projects and has special expertise in adaptively reusing and restoring historically significant buildings. His projects have received two AIA National Honor Awards and several state and local chapter awards.

He was principal-in-charge of the new Lenfest Hall for the Curtis Institute of Music; additions and renovations to the Allentown Art Museum; and renovations and restoration of the Main House at Dumbarton Oaks in Washington, DC. and renovations of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the Museum of Contemporary Art, San Diego.

Dan has taught in Drexel University's Department of Architecture since 1986. He is a member of the Philadelphia Historical Commission's Architectural Review Committee.

Jane Weinzapfel, FAIA

Leers Weinzapfel & Associates
Boston, MA

A principal of Leers Weinzapfel Associates Architects, Inc., in Boston, the 2007 National AIA Firm Award winner, Jane has directed the design of many acclaimed building projects, including the Transportation Control Center in Boston, which received an Award Citation from Progressive Architecture and a Merit Award given jointly by the US Department of Transportation and the National Endowment for the Arts. The MIT School of Architecture and Planning received an Interior Architecture Honor Award from the AIA, an Architectural Record/ Business Week Award and was featured in Architecture, Interiors and Interior Design.

The University of Pennsylvania Modular VI Chiller Plant was honored with an AIA Honor Award for Architecture, a P/A Award, and was featured in Architecture, Architectural Record, Business Week, A+U in Japan, L'Architettura and ARKITEKToN in Italy.

Conference Presenters

Fred Koetter, FAIA, RIBA

Koetter Kim & Associates
Boston, MA

A founding principal of Koetter Kim & Associates, an internationally recognized firm focusing on Architecture and Urban Design. Among his diverse professional accomplishments, Fred has been involved in the major urban design project of revitalization of London's docklands area at Canary Wharf and has developed renewal designs for a number of U.S. cities.

KKA was recommended by Cesar Pelli to create the 2007 master plan for the Columbus, Indiana downtown redevelopment, including becoming the lead designer for the new Commons, the Jackson Street Parking Garage and the Commons Office building for Cummins.

Fred served as Dean of the School of Architecture at Yale University from 1993-1998 and has taught at Cornell, Harvard and Kentucky. Fred co-authored Collage City with Colin Rowe. He received his B. Arch from the University of Oregon and M.Arch from Cornell University.

Susie Kim, AIA

Koetter Kim & Associates
Boston, MA

A founding principal of Koetter Kim & Associates, Susie brings to each project strong design leadership focusing on the theory that urban design and contextual issues inform architectural responses. Her greatest strengths are the ability to synthesize various project challenges into clear concepts guiding the design process towards resolution.

Susie led the 2007 master plan for the Columbus, Indiana downtown redevelopment, and was a co-designer for the new Commons, the Jackson Street Parking Garage and the Commons Office building for Cummins.

Susie is a fellow in the Institute of Urban Design. She has been a visiting professor and design critic at Harvard, MIT, Carnegie Mellon and RISD, receiving her architectural education from Cornell University and Harvard University Graduate School of Design.

Kevin Kennon, AIA

Kevin Kennon Architects
New York, NY

Kevin Kennon Architects was founded in 2002, after leaving as a design partner at Kohn, Pederson & Fox Associates, P.C. As a founding principal of United Architects, Kevin Kennon was a finalist in the prestigious 2002 World Trade Center Design Competition organized by the Lower Manhattan Development Corporation. His work has been exhibited widely and is in the Permanent Collection of the Museum of Modern Art. He has received over thirty major design awards including ten from the American Institute of Architects, the Architectural League Young Architects Award, and the Progressive Architecture Award. His monograph "Architecture Tailored" DD Publication #16 was published in 2006. He has taught at Yale University, Princeton University, the Cooper Union, and Columbia University and has lectured at Princeton, Yale, Rice, University of Houston, Amherst College, and the Architectural League of New York.

Carlos Jimenez, AIA

Carlos Jimenez Studio
Houston, TX

Born San Jose, Costa Rica in 1959, Carlos moved to the U.S. in 1974 and trained as an architect at the University of Houston (B.Arch. 1981). Carlos Jimenez Studio opened in 1983 and Carlos became a Tenured Professor at Rice University in 2000. He has taught at many universities in the U.S. and Spain; is a frequent lecturer, critic and jury member; and was a Pritzker Architecture Prize 2001-2011 jury member. Built works include: the Spencer Studio Art Building at Williams College, the Irwin Mortgage Corporate Headquarters, and the Centre Urbain in Evry France. Jimenez has received several design awards from the AIA, PA, Architectural Record, Architecture, the Chicago Athenaeum and the Architectural League of New York. His work has been published in numerous architectural journals and books such as "Carlos Jimenez" (Barcelona), "Carlos Jimenez Buildings" (New York), and "Crowley" (Singapore).

John Morris Dixon, FAIA

Boston, MA

An architecture graduate of MIT, Dixon left the drafting board for architectural journalism in 1960. After some years at Architectural Forum (for which he wrote a cover feature on Columbus in 1965), he served as chief editor of Progressive Architecture 1972-1996. In recent years he has written for numerous publications and is now a contributing editor for Architect.

He has been chair of the AIA Committee on Design and probably holds the record for COD conferences attended. He has been on numerous AIA chapter and regional juries and twice on the national Institute Honors for Collaborative Design jury. He has also served as a judge for several design competitions and has been on architect selection panels for GSA's Design Excellence program and for such institutions as the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art and the Milwaukee Art Museum.

Michael Franklin Ross, FAIA

HGA Architects and Engineers
Los Angeles, CA

Michael Ross is a Vice President and Principal with the Los Angeles office of HGA. His expertise in master planning and design spans more than 35 years, in which he has led more than $2 billion in design, architecture and planning projects. His expertise encompasses a diverse group of projects, from education, cultural and healthcare to laboratories and government facilities. During the last 20 years the majority of Michael's work has been focused on creating innovative healthcare environments that enhance experience and streamline hospital operations. He works with clients and the design team to develop the initial concept while maintaining the design throughout.

Michael was the project architect at Hardy Holtzman Pfeiffer Associates (HHPA) for the Cummins Occupational Health Association (COHA), completed in 1973 and received the AIA Honor Award in 1975.

Will Miller

The Wallace Foundation
New York, NY

Will Miller was born and raised in Columbus, Indiana, living there until becoming the president of the Wallace Foundation in 2011. The youngest of five children of J. Irwin and Xenia S. Miller, he continued his family's commitment to Columbus as the chairman of Irwin Management Co., CEO of Irwin Financial Corporation and a director of Cummins, Inc. He co-chaired Columbus' Vision 20/20, a major civic public/private investment initiative focused on rebuilding downtown and was a founding member of the Community Education Coalition.

Will earned a B.A. in English from Yale University and an M.B.A. from Stanford University.

Conference Presenters, local architects

James Paris, AIA

Paris/Bingham (retired)
Columbus, IN

In 2005, Jim Paris retired from the practice of Paris/Bingham Partnership. He is currently limiting his designs to residences for friends. The Columbus designs led by Jim Paris include the Bartholomew County Public Library addition, the addition to Fire Station No. 1, the Senior Center renovation, the new Home Federal Savings and Loan, and many private residences. He served as a consultant to Don M. Hisaka during the Bartholomew County Jail construction, and was the facilities architect for Columbus City Hall.

Nolan Bingham, AIA

Nolan Bingham Architect P.C.
Columbus, IN

Nolan G. Bingham currently has his own firm. He was a principal with Jim Paris at Paris/Bingham Partnership, who together designed the addition to Fire Station No. 1. Bingham's Columbus designs include the addition to the First Christian Church, the Ivy Tech State College facility, and the addition to the Mt. Healthy Elementary School. He served as consultant to Gwathmey Siegel & Associates Architects' during the Pence Place Apartments construction and was the local owner contact and consultant for Thompson and Rose Associates during the construction for the Bartholomew County Veterans Memorial.

Nolan received his architectural education from Ball State University.

Louis Joyner, AIA

Louis Joyner, Architect
Columbus, IN

Louis Joyner received his B.A. from New College of Florida, M. Arch. from Southern California Institute of Architecture (SCI-ARC), and worked for noted firms in Los Angeles and Indianapolis before starting his practice in 2000. The scope of the firms' work includes commercial, residential and preservation projects.

Selected projects by his firm include IUCA+D interiors, Kidscommons, the Kirr Marbach Building renovation and multiple projects related to the Crump Theater.

He spearheaded the groundbreaking designation of six of Columbus' modern buildings as National Historic Landmarks, and has recently prepared the pending NHL nomination for The Republic.

Louis serves on the Indiana Landmarks' "Indiana Modern" committee and on the mayor's Downtown Arts and Culture Planning Advisory Committee.

Todd Williams, AIA

Todd Williams & Associates P.C.
Columbus, IN

Starting off as a Liberal Arts and Philosophy major, Todd received his architectural education from the University of Michigan, interning and working for Cesar Pelli & Associates. He became an Architect in Residence for Irwin Management Company in Columbus, Indiana in 1983, doing many renovations for the original Commons and associate architect with Kevin Roche for the Columbus Visitors Center addition. Todd renovated the downtown Republic building when the presses were relocated to the Printing Center.

In 1989, he established his own small practice, working with Cummins and Irwin Union Bank, as well as other local clients. He has associated on projects with many of the national architects including Kevin Roche, Carlos Jimenez, Deborah Berke, Thompson Rose, and Koetter Kim.

COD 2012 Chair & Conference Co-Chairs

Mike Mense, FAIA

mmenseArchitects
Anchorage, AK

mmenseArchitects has won numerous design awards including an AIA National Urban Design Honor Award in 1996 and the Alaska Capitol Competition in 2005 in partnership with Morphosis.

Mike imagined and designed "From Canvas to Steel, Ed Crittenden and the Architecture of Anchorage, 1950-2000", an exhibit at the Anchorage Museum of History and Art in 2006.

He chaired the AIA Northwest and Pacific Region Conference in 1998 and 2009 and served as an Anchorage Housing and Neighborhood Development Commissioner, Anchorage Museum Association Trustee, Chairman of the Anchorage Urban Design Commission, President of KSKA Public Radio, Member of the Board of Directors of the Visual Arts Center of Alaska, and instructor at Anchorage Community College.

He received a B.Arch with highest honors from Virginia Tech in 1973.

Anthony "Tony" Costello, FAIA

Costello + Associates
Muncie, IN

The Irving Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Architecture, Tony taught for over 40 years at Ball State University. An advocate of community-based urban design and historic preservation, he founded Ball State's Muncie Urban Design Studio (MUDS) and Small Town Assistance Program. His limited architectural firm focuses on community projects.

Recipient of the "Unexpected Partner" award from the Columbus Visitors Center in 2008, Tony has participated in the center's tour guide training program, developed programs between Columbus Indiana Architectural Archives and the AIA, facilitated a charrette resulting in the IMA's ownership of the Miller House and Garden, and contributed to several videos on Columbus, Indiana.

Tony received his architectural education from Pratt and Columbia University, with a post-graduate fellowship at Harvard and MIT.

Steven Risting, AIA

CSO Architects, Inc.
Indianapolis, IN

A Design Principal at CSO Architects, Steve has practiced architecture in Indiana and Boston for over 30 years, with expertise in commercial, corporate, university and master planning, as well as a diversity of projects. He has been recognized for design excellence with numerous AIA and industry project awards.

He has designed or collaborated on the designs of many projects in Columbus, IN including St. Bartholomew Roman Catholic Church, The "new" Commons and several of the downtown redevelopment projects. In 2011, his contribution to Columbus architecture was recognized with the "Unexpected Partner" award. He is currently working on the 8th edition of "Columbus, Indiana: A Look at Modern Architecture and Art" and is a board member of the Columbus Indiana Architectural Archives.

A graduate of Iowa State University and Harvard University Graduate School of Design, Steve has taught architectural design at Ball State University.
