

Interfaith Design Sponsorship Prospectus 2019

Interfaith Design (ID) is a 4,000+ member knowledge community of the American Institute of Architects. ID encourages and supports excellence in the design of worship spaces and their accoutrements. It is an association of professionals whose primary interest is religious facilities in a broad array of traditions. We value an interfaith forum for the exchange of ideas relating to religion, art, and architecture. Learn more at aia.org/interfaith.

INTERFAITH DESIGN EVENTS

International Religious Award and Architecture Awards Celebration held during the AIA Conference on Architecture 2019

ID will host a reception for all members at the AIA Conference on Architecture 2019. Seasoned and new architects will connect with the member-volunteers who lead the Institute's Knowledge Communities in a festive gathering. ID will be celebrating the 2018 Religious Award and Architecture Awards recipients as well as announcing the 2019 Conover Award. We expect around 70 attendees for this event.

2017 Religious Art and Architecture Awards

The 2017 awards program, held by Faith & Form magazine and Interfaith Design, revealed a strong expression of community-based sacred space—not only for worship and ritual, but also for serving the needs of the surrounding community through outreach.

Review the 2017 recipients, and learn about the other design trends that are evident through the submitted works.

Articles

An exploration of the gathering place
Albert W. Lindeke III, FAIA and Craig Rafferty, FAIA | Church Designer Magazine

Gathering spaces are the heart of cities around the world. They welcome, orient, greet, and display the efforts of their people and the social life of the community. In the church setting, these spaces do all this, and take on a sacred mission, as well.

Sacred space and the healing journey
Paul L. Ait, AIA | Annals of Palliative Medicine

Sacred space and spirituality have long been used to heal the mind, body, and spirit. This article illuminates the origins of sacred space and its role as a healing environment, and examines the role of spirituality as one of the necessary human institutions for a healthy society. The conclusion then surveys three contemporary architecture, design guidelines, and how sacred spaces mend individual and community ailments.
