Innovation Day: 2019 CCA Symposium

A one-day symposium on technology and innovation during construction

March 13, 2019 | Washington, DC

Event Program

Welcome to the 2019 CCA Symposium!

The Construction Contract Administration (CCA) knowledge community at the American Institute of Architects welcomes you to our symposium on technology and innovation during construction.

Innovation Day 2019 brings a one-day symposium focusing on construction administration, its process, and the technologies that are impacting it in an unprecedented way. Learn and interact with national industry leaders who are implementing these changes and tracking how technology is influencing the entire building delivery process. This CCA Symposium will inspire participants by sharing some of the innovative practices architects are using during construction.

CCA helps members and the larger building professions navigate issues, actions and the impact of contract decisions. Through live presentations, interactive discussions, and our growing library of white papers, we seek to create a dialogue among our members and further the growth of our profession. Visit us online at aia.org/cca.
