Interfaith Design
Sponsorship Prospectus 2020

Interfaith Design (ID) is a 5,000+ member knowledge community of the American Institute of Architects. ID encourages and supports excellence in the design of worship spaces and their accoutrements. It is an association of professionals whose primary interest is religious facilities in a broad array of traditions. We value an interfaith forum for the exchange of ideas relating to religion, art, and architecture. Learn more at aia.org/interfaith.

Interfaith Design partners with Faith & Form to promote and celebrate religious architecture through the International Religious Art and Architecture Awards. ID also shares content of interest with its membership regularly, including case studies of award winners and articles on design or business trends. ID provides opportunities for religious architects and allied professionals to connect and share knowledge via their website and other communication channels.

INTERFAITH DESIGN EVENTS

International Religious Art and Architecture Awards Celebration held during the AIA Conference on Architecture 2019

ID will host a reception for all members at the AIA Conference on Architecture 2020. Seasoned and new architects will connect with the member-volunteers who lead the Institute’s Knowledge Communities in a festive gathering. ID will be celebrating the 2019 Religious Award and Architecture Awards recipients as well as announcing the 2020 Frey Award. We expect around 70 attendees for this event.

Articles

An exploration of the gathering place
Albert W. Lincoln III, FNA, and Craig Raftery, FNA | Church Design Magazine

Gathering spaces are the heart of churches around the world. They welcome, orient, greet, and locate the efforts of their people and the social life of the community in the church setting. These spaces do all this, and take on a sacred mission, as well.

Sacred space and the healing journey
Paul L. Alt, AIA | Interior Design Magazine

Sacred space and spirituality have long been linked to heal the mind, body, and spirit. This article explores the origins of sacred space and its role as a healing environment, and examines the role of spirituality as one of the most important healthcare tools for a healthy society. The conclusion then explores these contemporary architecture, design, and community approaches.
