Evolution of your Thinking

Evolution of your Thinking

Does a liberal society have something to teach us about thinking what is truly important? In a liberal society, the individual is the central focus. The individual is the one who is responsible for his or her own actions. The individual is the one who is responsible for his or her own success or failure. The individual is the one who is responsible for his or her own happiness. The individual is the one who is responsible for his or her own well-being. The individual is the one who is responsible for his or her own life.

- Barriers: do traditional ways of teaching dominate classroom design?
- Success stories of faculty breaking old patterns?
- What do students respond best to?
- Where else does teaching happen?
- How does technology drive design?
- What will classrooms look like in 20 years?
