Author Permission Agreement

- A. The American Institute of Architects (“AIA”) shall own the copyright in the newsletter published by AIA and in any derivative works, including audio or videotapes, other newsletters and written or other material, based on the newsletter.
- B. The undersigned grants to the AIA a non-exclusive, non-transferable right and license to publish, reproduce, and distribute the material or article (“material”) listed below in the newsletter, and in any derivative works, in all media now or hereafter known, including a hard copy, electronic multimedia, and/or Internet-based media. Any publication of the submitted materials by the AIA will be accompanied by an appropriate attribution of authorship. The permission to use and publish the material as part of the newsletter and in any derivative works is granted to the AIA by the undersigned at no cost to the AIA, its successors, directors, officers and staff.
- C. By signing this agreement, the undersigned warrants that he or she owns the rights, including copyright and other proprietary rights, to the materials submitted to AIA, or, if they belong to another party, that written permission has been obtained for their use by AIA as specified under the terms of this Agreement. The undersigned also warrants that the material does not infringe intellectual property or other proprietary rights of any third party. The undersigned indemnifies and holds the AIA, its successors, directors, officers and staff harmless from any and all liability, expense, or damage arising out of violation or alleged violation of this Agreement.

____ I hereby grant permission to the AIA to reproduce, publish and distribute my material as noted above.

____ I do not grant permission to the AIA to reproduce, publish and distribute my material as noted above.
