

Mind the Gap: 2019 RUDC Symposium

January 25, 2019 | AIA National Headquarters, Washington, DC

Regional and Urban Design will host a symposium to discuss the future of urban design education and urban design practice. Many of the challenges we face today as architects transcend the scale of a building. Issues of social equity, environmental degradation, resiliency, mobility, and community need creative strategies and design solutions.

How can a stronger bridge be built from academia to the profession? What are we teaching and why? This one-day symposium brings together leading educators in urban design programs across the country and the firms that are implementing plans for structured conversations around the intersection of urban design teaching and practice.

Help us drive the conversation: submit your session proposal by December 12.

Submit a session proposal

Ready to join the conversation?

Registration will open in mid-December. Help us craft the event that is most meaningful to you by completing our pre-registration interest form, and you'll get first notice when we open registration.

Submit now >

Stay connected

This email was sent to you from The American Institute of Architects. If you are having trouble viewing this email you can view it in your browser. Unsubscribe. Manage my email preferences.

The American Institute of Architects
1735 New York Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20006-5292

© 2018 The American Institute of Architects